The Hurricane in the Gulf.

Both our Gulf and Atlantic coasts suffer severely at times from the cyclonic storms that originate in the Caribbean Sea. September and October are normally months of lowest atmospheric pressure in the West Indies and the Caribbean. Currents of air from al directions move toward this area of low barome er and the meeting of these cur rents gives rise to a circular or whirling motion whose diameter at the start is a small affair, but is sometimes increased to 2000 miles. The whirl invariably moves northward and nearly always thus our entire Gulf coast may be brought within its range; but by the time it reaches the Gulf Stream its westerly direction is changed to easterly and it follows, in part, the stream's course; and our Atlantic coast sometimes gets the benefit of the western part of the whirl.

About 88 per cent of these West Indies cyclones occur in August, Saptem ber and October. Fortunately most of them are not of a very destructive character. The records in the Island of St. Thomas, for example, show that in the century and a half preceding 1897 that island suffered from devastating cyclones only seven times though it is the northern and eastern islands, such as St. Thomas, Porto Rico, Cuba and the Buhamas that are must frequently in the pathway of the severest cyclones. With a wind velocity at Galveston, the other day, of eighty miles an hour, nearly twice the velocity of the wind that mariners call a strong gale, the storm, everywhere over sea or land, must have been of very destructive violence unless Galveston was near the centre of the whirl: for the force of the wind gradually increases from the margin toward the

The extension of our weather service to a number of islands in the Antilles has already proved of considerable service by the warnings sent to our ports and shipping of the approach of these storms. No such warnings, however, could mitigate the catastrophe that has overwhelmed Galveston. Her citizens will probably ascertain, as soon as possible, how far the resources of engineer ing science may be available to protect them in future from similar invasions of the sea caused by cyclones.-New York passengers, but not so for operatives and for men "stealing rides" on freight trains. The report of the Interstate Commerce commission shows that, for the year ending June 30, 1899, there were 7,123 persons killed and 44,620 injured on the railways of the United States. This is a greenalty list greater. States. This is a casualty list greater than that of many wars.

The peril of tramps who steal their way about the country on trains is shown by the fact that, of the 7,123 persons killed, 4,040 are classed as "trespassers"-that is, persons who had no right on the trains. Of the above total of deaths, but 250 were passengers. This gives but one death for every 2,-189,023 passengers carried by rail. This small loss shows the safety of passenger traffic in the United States.

Of railway employes, one out of every 420 was killed that year, and one out of every 27 was injured. This is a bad showing. The long agitation for the adoption of power brakes and automatic couplings had for its basis the safety of employes. The railways are now very generally equipped with these contrivances, but the large percentage of injuries to employes shows that there are many other dangers to them than those involved in hand braking and coupling.

For the Invalid.

The housekeeper who can make meals attractive at all times, and the act of call sitting down to them a pleasure to be anticipated as well as realized, has reached a huge stage of excellence, and if she can go further than this and make an invalid's diet as tempting as it may be nutritious, she has won one of the finest diplomas. It is an unfortunate fact that invalid diet is usually plan to fact that invalid diet is usually plain to monotony; patients complain that everything which is worth eating is denied to them, and often there is much truth in their assertion. Milk and beef tea gain a reputation that is by no means creditable, because they form the staple resource on which the nurse relies, and for weeks together appear with psinful regularity. Too often both nurse and housekeeper forgot that the two essential elements of invalid diet necessary to left out or overlooked, there is small chance for the food to be of much benefit, whatever its own intrinsic worth may

While riding along over a country road with friends from another locality, a lady in the party remarked as we passed a farm, "A poor man lives there." I asked her why and she simply said. "So many farm implements left out in the weather." She spoke the truth, and I have set to wondering if that is what keeps some people so poor. What she could have said and spoken the truth would have been, "A poor farmer lives there." for it is a sure sign of poor farm-

American Horses in Switzerland.

Consul Gifford writes from Basel to the department of state: For several years past American saddle and driving horses have been imported in large num bers into Switzerland. This spring the business seems to be assuming unusual activity, and one shipment of seventytwo American animals has already arrived in Basel. These are offered to the public exclusively as draft horses. The Swiss importer obtains for them about ,400 francs ($270) each, and up to this time they appear to have given satisfaction. They are bought up all the more eagerry, since it is thought that further opportunities for such purchases may not be frequent in the near future. It is reported here that the demand for American horses for South Africa has occasioned a scarcity which may render New Train Service Between S exportation to Europe impracticable for the present.

PETITION FOR PRIVATE ROAD.

In the County Court of Holt County, Missouri, at the October adjourned term, 1500.

To the honorable County Court:

Your petitioner, Samuel C. Evans, states to the Court that he is owner of the following described tract of land in Holt County, Missouri, to-wit:—The south thirty acres for the southeast fourth [50] the southwest quarter of section twenty-nine (29) in township fifty-nine of range thirty-seven (37); that no public road passes through or touches the said land and that your petitioner has no legal right or passway whatever to or from his said land.

Your petitioner therefore prays the Court for an order establishing a private road from his said order his to connect at a convenient point with the following public road in said County, viz.:—The public road running on the south side of and parallel with the line of the Kansas City, St. Joseph and Council Bluffs railroad.

Your petitioner desires the said road laid out one rod in width and in the following place, to-wit.:—Beginning at the northwest corner of your petitioners said land, thence north on the west line of the cast-half of the southwest quarter of said section twenty-nine about twenty-one chains to the place where said line intersects the public road aforesaid; the line above described being the West line of the desired road.

Your petitioner states that all the lands to be crossed by the said proposed road are situated in Holt County, Missouri, and that the owners Straw Horseshoes. Straw is put to strange uses in Japan. Most of the horses are shod with straw. Even the clumsiest of cart horses wear straw shoes. In their case the shoes are tied around the ankles with straw rope and are made of the ordinary rice straw, braided so that they form a sole for the foot about half an inch thick. These soles cost about a half penny pe pair, and when they are worn out they are thrown away. Every cart has a stock of fresh new shoes tied to the horse or to the front of the cart, and in Japan it was formerly the custom to measure distance largely by the number of horseshoes it took to cover the distance. So many horseshoes made a day's journey, and the average shoe lasted for

Fiddled Into Office.

If history be true, Governor Taylor o l'ennessee is not the only man who fiddled himself into office. Lossing relates that in 1818 he met at Oswego, N. Y. Major Cochran, then nearly 80 years old, a son-in-law of General Philip Schuyler, who told the story of his election to congress during the administration of the elder Adams. A vessel was to be launched on one of the lakes in interior New York, and people came from afar to see it. The young folks gathered there, determined to have a dance at night. There was a fiddle, but no fiddler. Young Cochran was an amateur performer, and his services were demand ed. He gratified the joyous company, and at the supper table one of the gentlemen remarked, in commendation of his talents, that he was "fit for congress." The matter was talked up, and he was nominated and elected a representative in congress for the district then comprising the whole of New York west of Schenectady. He always claimed to

After traveling two or three miles it is puzzling to come to another stating that i is still five miles to that same town. It always reminds one of the man who directed another to a certain town in this manner: "You go two miles this way, turn to the left, go two miles and then you'll wish you had gone the other

THE gold Democrats are being urged to vote for Bryan on the ground that the silver plank in the platform does not amount to much, after all, because "the Democratic party, you know, never keeps it promises." Those Democrats who love Bryan because he is "sincere.'s and who also say he is "harmless" be cause of his supposed inability to futfill his pledges, are giving themselves up to worse logic than Bryan himself has ever been guilty of.

THE treasury surplus for the fiscal ear ending June 30, exceeded $80,000,-000.
